TRANSPARENT COAT IS LATEST FANCY

Other Styles, Nearly as Weird, Seem to Threaten Males of National Capital.

"What next?" was the laconic chorus which went up in the streets of Wash-ington when what is probably the first ington when what is probably the first piece of diaphanous outer raiment worn by an otherwise conservatively attired male made its appearance.

Everywhere the new garment made its appearance, feminine as well as male voices blended in the symphony of ejaculations—"What next?"

The "latest" in masculine attire is a transparent raincoat. It is made in the "slip-on" style, of a rubber texture similar to that used in the manufacture of toy balloons. A suit of the Shepherd plaid variety showed plainly through the unique raincoat. With all its thinness and transparency the garment, however, is absolutely waterproof, its wearer averred.

White Shoe Tops.
But the question provoked by this White Shoe Tops.

But the question provoked by this newcomer in the realm of masculine fashion is probably best answered by dwelling on some of the other novelties anticipated for the form of Adonis. What next? Well, white cloth top shoes for instance, if the fact that such footwear has already made its appearance in a few instances is a criterion of what men will disport during the year. Fashion influenced by the European war has sounded the death knell of the spat in the opinion of some haberdashers and shoe dealers. The war caused a soar in the price of leather; shoe makers began to use cloth for shoe tops and so with the debut of the cloth uppers already attached to the shoe the detachable and much, maligned spat began to disappear.

Militarism is already showing its effect in several unusual types of overcoats, which are to be expected. One of these is a tight-fitting, three-quarter-length garment, with corset back and a military cape. Another is the single-button, double-breasted sack coat, a garment which causes the conservative dresser to throw up his hands in horror at first sight, and one which draws the gaze and engenders the admiration of every "culud spo't" the wearer passes.

It's Extreme, All Right.

It's Extreme, All Right.

Extreme is the proper adjective to ap-ply to this "new one," which is very tight-fitting and military. Still another coat which the man with a tendency for oddities in clothing will don is the convertible overcoat, made with large pleats and a heavy belt in the back, the collar so arranged that it can worn either buttoned up closely like a military coat or worn with the lapels back the same as they are in the sack coat.

And really, old chap, if you would be strictly up to date in the opinion of some fellows, your tie must be extremely narrow. Several high class New York ly narrow. Several high class New York ly narrow. Several high class New York haberdashers have shown narrow ties, conservatively narrow, but they were evidently insufficient in their narrowness, for the radicals have gone them one better, and as a result the "shot-string" neckpiece, so narrow that the small boy could be pardoned for mistaking it as his kite string, has made its appearance.

appearance. "Fawney" waisteoats bid fair to come into their own with the chap who would attract attention to his garb. Despite the consternation prevalent in the minds of men who first view these things and pitifully wail, "Do we have to wear these to be stylish?" the haberdasher pours his balm of Gliead with a decided "No. There are other things to wear."

AND DAIRIES TO MEET

International Association of Dairy and Milk epectors will be held October 27, 28, and 29, at the Raleigh. The organisation was formed three years ago for the purpose of developing uniform and efficient inspection of dairy farms, milk establishments, milk, and milk products. Its members include practical dairymen. manufacturers of milk products, ernment inspectors, professors of chemistry from colleges and universities, health officials, and persons iterested in milk supply generally from the United States and Canada.

The convention will be opened October 27, at 10 a. m., with an address of welcome by P. T. Moran, president of the come by P. T. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Dr. William C. Woodward, health officer of the District, will extend a welcome on behalf of the District Government. Reports of officers will be read, after which a series of papers dealing with milk supply and its relation to the public will be read. These papers and the discussions arising from them will consume the remainder of the convention period. The social side of the convention will include sight-seeing trips and a banquet on October 29. The officers of the association are A. N. Henderson, of Seattle, president; William H. Price, of Detroit; O. P. Thompson, of Waterloo, Iowa, and C. F. Bosse, of Omaha, vice presidents, and Ivan C. The Turkish embassy asserts that confiscated letters from priests and nams to the allied countries showed some of the priests were acting as spies, giving valuable military information to Turkev's enemies, writing to priests in Italy, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Greece, and Roumania.
Secret codes were used, according to the Turkish government.
"The persons involved will undergo the penalty incurred by them according to their degree of responsibility," the embassy here declared. These people have not hesitated to appeal to the press to show themselves as victims of persecution."

Navy League Lauds POLICEMAN INJURED Rebuff of H. Ford

Officers and Directors Address Formal Letter of Thanks to James Couzens.

James Couzens.

Officers and directors of the Navy League have addressed a formal letter of thanks to James Cousens for his section in severing relations with Henry Ford and resigning as vice president of the Ford Motor Company in so public a manner.

The letter, which is signed by the secretary of the league, tells Mr. Cousens:

"The board of directors and the executive committee of the Navy League of the United States have instructed me to convey to you their thanks and congratulations for your courageous and high-minded action in severing your connection with the Ford Motor Company. Because of public interest in Mr. Ford and the public should know that he stands practically alone in his opinion that disarmament will serve the cause of peace as a policy for this nation. This cannot better be demonstrated than by the action of a clear-thinking, patriotic member of his own industrial family such as yourself in severing business connections with the company you have done so much to make successful rather than lend the indorsement of passive assent to Mr. Ford's dangerous and lilusory doctrines of national policy."

Headache, beiching, billousness, bloat. drowsiness after eating and other symp-toms of constipation can be readily relieved by the use of a simple laxative compound sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. J. H. Bristol, 1412 Geddes Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., who is 83 years old, says "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for constipation and I always have a bottle of it in the house to use when I feel the need of it; is never disappoints."

wore a heavily padded coat and a thick jersey.

Policeman Marks and Mounted Officer H E. Galpin were near the River road northeast, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Along the road came three colored men carrying sacks. On the lookout for junk thieves, the two policemen started to investigate, at which the three men took to their heels, saarting off over a culvert which runs near the road toward the Eastern Branch marshes.

The policemen gave chase. Marks headed his motorcycle out on the culvert, which is about five feet wide. He was going at a good clip when the front wheel of his machine struck a sewer trap lid projecting a little above the surface, the machine skidded, and with its rider disappeared over the fitteen-foot drop.

Although badly shaken, Marks soon discovered that no bones were broken. The three men whose actions he was about to investigate escaped over the marshes. The motorcycle was badly damaged. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild faxative preparation, positive in its effect, acting easily and naturally without griping or other pain or discomfort.
For over a quarter of a century it has by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, been the standard household remedy in Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.
